

Peruvian Rebels Surrender Ships

LIMA, Peru, Oct. 4 (AP)—Rebelled ships of the Peruvian Navy entered Callao harbor today flying white flags of surrender in a dramatic climax to a short-lived but bloody revolution.

The government of President Jose Luis Bustamante Rivero charged the leftist Apra Party with the revolt and rounded up more than 100 members, including leaders in the Parliament.

The revolt was undertaken yesterday by sailors and armed civilians. It centered in Callao, port of Lima, but some clashes occurred also in the capital. The rest of the country was not affected.

With white flags fluttering, the 3,200-ton cruiser Admiral Grau and frigates Ferre and Palacios were the first to enter Callao harbor. The destroyer Villar and three submarines followed. Rear Adm. Heriberto Maguina, navy commander, boarded the cruiser and ran up his own insignia.

The exact number of casualties was not learned. The wounded crowded hospitals in Lima and Callao. Fifty were treated at the Lima army hospital alone.

The dead included three army lieutenants and Lt. Commander Juan Revoredo, second in command of naval transport, who was shot in the back when he refused to surrender to the rebellious sailors.

Hammond Files Demurrer To States Rights' Suit

BALTIMORE, Oct. 4 (AP)—Attorney General Hall Hammond today filed a demurrer asking the Baltimore Superior Court to throw out a suit by which the State Rights Democrats hope to get their presidential candidates on the ballot in November.

The case is set for hearing before Judge Joseph Sherbow on Wednesday.

The Attorney General reiterated the points of law which led to his ruling that the names of Gov. J.
Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, and Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi, were submitted too late.

The law requires that new parties wanting on the ballot must file petitions before the spring primaries. The State Rights Democrats hadn't formed their party when the deadline passed for the procedure.

"Hot-Spot" Bomb Being Developed

EGLIN FIELD, Fla., Oct. 4 (AP)—
This proving ground of the Air Force has an uncanny bomb which is designed to guide its own fall onto enemy ships, factories, oil reheat.

Observers visiting "Operation weapon among a display of guided missiles in a hangar. It is known that bombs of this type are being studied at Wright Field, Ohio, and at a west coast university research laboratory as well as at Eglin.

The Air Force designation of the weapon is VB-6 or "heat-seeking bomb." Technicians explained the bomb "homes in" on any target which radiates more heat than its surroundings.

Prominent Baltimore Lawyer's Death Probed

BALTIMORE, Oct. 4 (AP)—Police today were investigating the death of Hunter H. Moss, prominent Baltimore lawyer, who was found dead in a hotel room here last night.

Moss registered at the hotel Friday under the name of F. M. Armstrong, New York. A house detective entered his room last night after his suspicious were aroused by a
"do not disturb" sign that had hung on the door since Friday.

He found the body fully clothed, lying on the floor. A note was left in the room, apparently written by Moss, telling the location of his car at a railroad station.

Police found several empty prescription bottles and boxes in the room and a few remaining capsules.

Opening of Anti-Smoke Office Cheerful News

The announcement several days ago that the smoke control office had been opened and that the personnel is now prepared to receive complaints of continued violations of the city's ordinance to curb excessive smoke, grime and soot which pollutes Cumberland's air, is cheering news. The step, so long coming, revives hope within the people of our city that they may look forward to seeing greater efforts put forth toward correcting the irritating conditions.

With the announcement that smoke control headquarters is ready to function, Director Hitchcock issued a lengthy statement outlining his intentions and the methods he proposes to pursue to harness the health-injurious elements, and points to Pittsburgh's long fight to bring about a cleansing of that metropolis. More about that later.

Mr. Hitchcock says he does not expect to achieve results in a hurry, and that he will exhaust all means to bring about voluntary adherence to the ordinance before resorting to toughness and exercise of police regulations. We nurture the sincere hope that that will not be found necessary, but should his plan fail the people of Cumberland will expect whatever action is required.

Director Hitchcock has been in charge of this important department of the city for nine months. It was to have been expected that much spadework, such as registering all stationary boilers, etc., would have been accomplished by now. But that should not take too long, and with the knowledge already in the hands of Mr. Hitchcock, as result of his visits to industries and railroads, and his conferences with those delegated the task of checking smoke and dirt, it can be expected that the balance of the preliminary work will move ahead rapidly.

Steps have been taken by most industries and railroads in an effort to meet the requirements of the city's ordinance. But the results, so far, leave much to be desired. The placing of dirt-catchers about the city will facilitate the task of tracing the source of foreign elements, and will enable Director Hitchcock to put his finger directly on those creating more smoke and dirt than considered necessary.

And now the Pittsburgh situation. Director Hitchcock takes comfort in the slowness of our program because, as he says, it took Pittsburgh seven years to bring about results it now enjoys. He points out that the Pittsburgh ordinance was passed in 1941 but he overlooked or neglected to take cognizance of the Pittsburgh record that the war caused a four-year postponement of its operation. After that, we should like to call to the attention of Mr. Hitchcock, war-born shortages further handicapped the Steel City officials in moving with earnestness to correct conditions.

The most important fact Mr. Hitchcock fails to bring out in his statement is that Pittsburgh's ordinance did not go into operation until last October—just one year ago. And during the first six months of the ordinance's operation it was beset by an organized campaign to undermine it. But, despite all this, the results Pittsburgh is enjoying, as stated in this column last week, and which are attracting nationwide attention, are almost unbelievable. That is the record, Mr. Director!

We agree that the same results should be achieved for Cumberland in considerably less time "comparatively in proportion to their (Pittsburgh's) population." The people of Cumberland will await them with much anticipation.

Forces Of Inflation Are Still Unspent

Railroad executives have agreed that present rail freight rates are not producing "adequate revenue." So the railroads have asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for an 8 per cent increase on most goods.

Strictly speaking, this request should not be thought of as new. What the railroads want is an adjustment in the order issued last July 29. At that time the roads were granted rates averaging 22.6 per cent higher than those prevailing in midsummer of 1947.

But all except 1.2 per cent of this had been allowed under interim orders previously issued. The roads did not get the additional 7.8 per cent they had sought.

So they have gone back for it now. Their argument is that the rates fixed by the ICC in the July order have been tried and have been proven to be too low. The decision by the railroad traffic executives strongly hints that the consequences of higher wages to railway employees have not yet been fully felt.

The effects of still higher freight rates will react all through the economy. Everything that must be carried by rail will cost a little more. Moreover, the current request for higher freight rates has no relation to the demands for further pay increases now being made by railroad unions.

If these demands are granted, the roads will be confronted by a different situation and they will have to meet it somehow. It is a safe prediction that they will ask for still higher freight rates, not to mention passenger fare increases.

Plainly, the forces of inflation are still unspent.

Confusion, A Plenty, In Head Of President Truman

Republicans are using an old political trick, says Mr. Truman: "If you can't convince them, confuse them." We grant that there is plenty of confusion, but we submit that it is mainly in the head of the Democratic standardbearer.

To begin with, he campaigns as if he were outside the breastworks, trying to get in, when actually he is inside, and the Chief Executive. He claims credit for high wages and farm prices, but blames somebody else for their logical consequence, which is high prices. He attacks "the Republican Congress," when the fact is that Democratic members—most of them—enabled Congress to override his vetoes of its two major legislative achievements. Going back a year or so, we find him predicting widespread unemployment, which didn't come to pass; asserting that wages and could be raised 25 per cent without price advances, and then ratifying those advances; making successive wrong guesses, and big ones, as to the national income.

Harry Truman said he is "giving them hell," meaning his political opponents. But isn't he giving himself quite a beating?

Causes Of Bad Breath

The cause of halitosis varies and sometimes the responsible factors are obvious and can be remedied easily. Often the disturbance results from neglected dental hygiene. Food stagnates in the gum margins and, unless removed, is fermented upon by bacteria in the mouth. This creates a bad odor, but if pyorrhoea supervenes it is usually accentuated. Under these circumstances, the outer layer of the tooth is destroyed just below the gum margins and pus pockets develop. The gums are inflamed and bleed easily. In this stage the condition can hardly be cured without the help of a dentist. When rectified, all signs of halitosis disappear.

Vincent's angina (trench mouth) is another frequent cause. This is an acute infection caused by tiny snake-like microorganisms. It usually begins in the tonsils and spreads forward into the mouth and ultimately invades the gum margins. The tissues are swollen and covered with a dirty gray membrane. The temperature may be elevated and now and then marked fatigue is noted. By removing some of the secretions from the lesions and examining the material under a microscope, the causative germs can be found. Penicillin is a most effective remedy and can be painted on the surface, utilized in lozenges, or given hypodermically.

Individuals suffering from malnutrition are often bothered with unpleasant breath. This is true especially when vitamin C is lacking. The same occurs to those who have been ill for a long time and are in a debilitated state. Infection in the nose and throat also can produce this phenomenon. In most instances the afflicted persons have postnasal drip and the odor originates not only from these secretions but also from the site of infection.

A disagreeable scent is noted also in men and women suffering with chronic bronchitis and other lung disorders.

Now and then offensive breath originates in the stomach, especially when the organ empties slowly and the mixture of food and gastric juice remains in the gastric pouch too long. Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, and flatulence are frequently accompaniments. In these circumstances, halitosis is most noticeable on arising in the morning.

When the breath has a distinctive odor, the cause is more obvious. If it has a sweetish, sickly smell diabetes always is a possibility. This is due to an overabundance of acetone in the system which means that the diabetes is not controlled. The same odor appears after excessive vomiting or during an advanced stage of starvation. Stale tobacco may also be offending and is most likely to occur in pipe smokers who fail to keep the pipe stem clean. Onions, garlic, certain vegetables, and herbs also leave their mark. Even those who have imbibed too much alcohol will be left with an odor as telltale evidence of their misadventure. Occasionally individuals are encountered in which no cause can be found. When this occurs much can be done by eating less fat and other greasy substances, or by avoiding constipation through the use of a suitable laxative.

Don't Let Go

W.W. writes: I know a woman who has a dropped bladder. Is there danger of it dropping too far?

REPLY

A dropped bladder is enough cause for worry and, consequently your friend should have the disturbance corrected. The danger is not in the organ dropping too far but that infection and irritation will ensue.

Old Time Remedy

Mrs. K.B. writes: What do you think of chlorine treatment for sinus infection?

REPLY

I can suggest many better remedies. After all, our modern antisepstics like penicillin are far superior for this purpose.

Bunion Removal

Mrs. S.P. writes: How soon after a bunion operation can one start walking?

REPLY

This depends upon the type of operation. The majority are able to walk by the end of two weeks. In some instances weight can be borne a day or two following surgery.

Length Of Mrs. Roosevelt's Life Was Remarkable In Itself

By MARK SULLIVAN

Last week an old, old lady died.

She was buried in a double grave, of which half had been occupied for more than a quarter century by her husband, who was the 26th President of the United States. This distribution, however, the tombstone did not record; it bore simply the name,

Theodore Roosevelt, with the dates of his birth and death, and the name and birthday of his wife, Edith Kermit, with a space left vacant for the death date that came last week.

Mrs. Roosevelt's lifetime covered more than half her country's history.

On the date of her birth, August 5, 1858, the Civil War had barely begun. Abraham Lincoln had been in the White House only five months, and had not yet ended slavery by the Emancipation Proclamation.

More recently, a Detroit Grand Jury has shown that Michigan auto dealers fudged on their sales taxes to the tune of several million dollars. They simply "forgot" to pay the state. And Michigan Attorney

General Black, the lonely clean-up

Republican, claims that this reneging on sales taxes was the payoff for the big campaign contributions.

When you save thousands of dollars on sales taxes, naturally you can afford to give hundreds of dollars to the GOP.

Life's Length Remarkable

The length of Mrs. Roosevelt's life was remarkable of itself, covering a period of history in which rapid and deep-reaching change was making a different world. She was nearly 60 before she had the right to vote, conferred by the women's suffrage amendment to the Constitution in 1920. She was over

60 before she could hear a radio program, was over 40 before she could ride in an airplane, was a grown young woman before she could by electric light, a girl of 15

before she could use the telephone.

Most of her children were born before she could see a motion picture, and she had grandchildren before she could see a talking movie.

When her husband rode to the Capitol in Washington for his inaugural ceremony, his conveyance was a horsedrawn vehicle, the first President to use an automobile. He lived through four wars, the Civil War in which her husband was a colonel,

the First World War in which she lost her youngest son, the Second World War, in which she lost her eldest and another.

In the portion of the history of her time in which she herself had a part, during seven years in the White House, her role was, by choice and strongly-held standards of taste, inconspicuous. To Roose-

Mayor Says Lots Are Too Small

The city has tabled a proposal for the acceptance of South View Terrace in the South End.

Mayor Thomas S. Post voiced objection to the proposal because the "lots are too small"; and Street Commissioner Edgar Reynolds said acceptance would obligate the city to install sewers and lights, funds for which are not available.

Michael D. Rinehart, real estate agent, and Carl A. Low, engineer, appeared in support of the project and argued that the lots would allow homes of standard size under present specifications. Mayor Post, however, expressed the opinion that lots did not meet requirements for a modern home.

Reynolds said that the city would be "perfectly willing to do the seving and light installations," if it had the money and pipe. He recalled that other sections, Bedford Road extended, in particular, are badly in need of sewer facilities.

The proposed addition is bounded on the north by Second Street extended, on the east by Blackstone Avenue; south by Quebec Avenue and a tier of lots fronting on Montreal Avenue; and on the west by a tier of lots fronting on Wempe Drive extended.

The addition would embrace approximately 30 acres and comprise 183 lots, majority of which are 50 by 100 feet. Streets would range from 40 to 55 feet.

City Clerk Wallace G. Ulery reported receipts of $1,806.20 during August. General licenses brought in $36; pinball, $75; produce permits, $1.50; Sunday movie tax, $88.70 and bingo admission tax, $505.

Tax collector James M. Conway reported in August August totaled $86,715.38, including $29,294.27 general taxes; $15 general improvement bonds; $10 in 1931 sewer bonds; and $39,396.11 in water rents.

Street Commissioner Reynolds said that 636 streets were paved; 78 alleys cleaned; 16 catch basins and five manholes cleaned during the past month. Streets were washed and cleaned, the report added.

Cops Seek Male Cinderella Here

The Cumberland Police Department will write a new ending to the tale of Cinderella when they discover the man who can wear a pair of slippers abandoned in a local home.

Max Lent, 845 Maryland Avenue, reported yesterday that an intruder he surprised in his home early Sunday left so suddenly he forgot the footwear he had doffed for the stealthy visit.

The man escaped, however, with 85 cents and the keys to Lent's store and truck. Lent also reported that $30 had been taken from his home last week.

Today's Talk

Praise Where Due

The effect of praise even upon a child is evident at once. In later life it acts as success medicine. Honest and sincere praise never loses anyone anything. The oftener it is given, the better.

There are employers who faultily think that a little praise may mean a request for more money. Let such a one meditate upon the idea that praise is increased money to him! For the happier a worker is, the harder he works to do better. Praise where due never results in a loss to anyone, but the lack of praise has caused many a loss. Even the monetary value of appreciation is all too often overlooked. Pat a race horse upon the nose and he will run a better race—maybe be the winner!

Praise is always encouragement, and who doesn't react to encouragement? It's the salt that savors all achievement. Have you ever noticed how much better an actor plays his part after the first round of enthusiastic applause? And the greater the actor is, the more is that applause appreciated.

The praise that you give to someone else costs you nothing, but is worth a great deal to the one who receives it. The withholding of praise is always a shrinking process affecting all concerned.

Perhaps the happiest praise is that which comes from some unexpected source—praise, perhaps, that has been withheld for a long time, until it just had to come into the light and make itself manifest! From some absent loved one, or even from some stranger. Earl Derr Biggers, who made "Charlie Chan" famous, once told me the praise that Richard Harding Davis gave him at the inception of his literary career was a boost that inspired him on to his later success.

It was the praise of Premier Baldwin that started the fame of the excellent writer, Mary Webb, who was lifted out of poverty to the attention of all lovers of fine literature. What a kindness that was and praise so richly deserved. You climb Heaven's ladder when you praise!

MIRROR OF Your MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Are parents unfair to ugly or disfigured children?

Answer: That depends on whether the mother's and father's interest is in the child as a human being or as a potential "credit to them." There are parents who unconsciously regard their children as extensions of the parental "ego" and love them because—or only when—they win applause or admiration. A child who is physically unattractive has a special need of love and reassurance, though these ought not to be carried to the point of spoiling him or leaving him unprepared to face the handicaps he may be forced to suffer as an adult.

Can love "drive a man to drink?"

Answer: Never, if love involves caring for someone and wishing to see him (or her) happy. But the craving to be loved, particularly as a baby is loved by its mother, is a frequent cause of "problem drinking," especially with a person who has hoped to get that kind of love from someone who cannot or will not give it to him. Failure to get the uncritical devotion he learned to depend on as a child is often what drives an alcoholic to retreat from the "harsh world." And it is no coincidence that he takes refuge in a bottle.

All County School Rooms Being Used

Bruce Asks Probe Of Mine Deaths

There is "not a single vacant room in any school" in the county, Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of pupil personnel of the Board of Education said yesterday in commenting on the crowded condition of county schools.

Superintendent of Schools Charles L. Kopp said that although the situation is not out of hand, some schools are "considerably overcrowded."

Ramey pointed out that classroom space was added in 1940-41 when West Side School was constructed in such a way as to allow expansion when needed. The same year additions were built to John Hubbard School and Cresaptown School.

Flintstone School is probably the most overcrowded, Ramey said. He added that McCole, Corriganville, Cresaptown, LaVale and Central are all over filled. All high schools are filled to capacity with Fort Hill and Allegany having record enrollments.

Plans are being studied and mapped out, Kopp said, so that schools will be able to meet next year's larger enrollment and ever increasing registration up to 1954. Ramey pointed out that the student rate is 60 per cent over the 1936 figure.

Hearing Is Planned For Crash Driver

A 53-year-old driver will face a reckless driving charge in Trial Magistrates Court when he is discharged from Allegany Hospital where he was taken following an accident at 1:10 a. m. yesterday.

According to the city police accident report, Sidney L. Wauhop, of Winchester Road, suffered a deep laceration on his head when his car crashed into a parked machine in front of 164 North Centre.

Orval Grant Rhodes, owner of the parked car, said he was in a home on North Centre Street when he heard the crash. His vehicle was driven on the sidewalk and Wauhop's auto was on its side in the middle of the street.

Officer George Pieffer, who investigated filed reckless driving charges against Wauhop, who posted $51.45 bond.

James W. Dawson, 221 Water Street, forfeited $1145 bond yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court after being charged with operating a car without a driver's permit.

Perhaps the happiest praise is that which comes from some unexpected source—praise, perhaps, that has been withheld for a long time, until it just had to come into the light and make itself manifest!

From some absent loved one, or even from some stranger. Earl Derr Biggers, who made "Charlie Chan" famous, once told me the praise that Richard Harding Davis gave him at the inception of his literary career was a boost that inspired him on to his later success.

It was the praise of Premier Baldwin that started the fame of the excellent writer, Mary Webb, who was lifted out of poverty to the attention of all lovers of fine literature. What a kindness that was and praise so richly deserved. You climb Heaven's ladder when you praise!

Trieste Gets Ship Order

TRIESTE — (AP) — Two 25,000-ton merchant motor-vessels of the "Neptunia" class will be built in Trieste's San Marco shipyards for the Italia Shipping Company. The ships are part of an order of four. The other two will be built in Genoa, Italy, company officials said.

This is the biggest order for the world-famed Trieste shipyards since the end of the war, and will contribute to relief of unemployment in the free territory.

KEEPING UP WITH

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 4—(INS)—It's Spencer Tracy for "Robinson Crusoe," and according to M.G.M. always has been.

In "Robinson Crusoe," Spencer will take one of the biggest locations since "Trader Horn." He'll go to Jamaica where all the exteriors will be shot in what is one of the biggest projects since the economy wave swept over Hollywood.

This should make Spence our most travelled actor. He just came back from London where he filmed "Edward, My Son."

Just before Joan Bennett left for New York with Walter Wanger and the two children, she received a cablegram from Rossellini, the noted Italian director, who asked her to come to Rome immediately and make a picture for him.

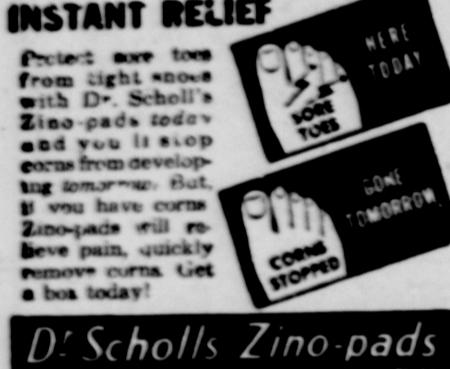

I asked her what she would do, and she said:

"How can I leave all my family? It's the story of my life. Always when something like this comes up, I've either just had a baby, or am going to have one. If I could take all the children with me, I'd make the picture. Anyway, I'm very flattered that he wants me."

I have been on the "Mother Was a Freshman" set with Loretta Young and Van Johnson several times the last week. Loretta's clothes are a dream. Her evolution from a chic Park Avenue woman of wealth to a college girl is explained in her wardrobe. Kay Nelson, who designed them under the supervision of Charlie Le Maitre, said red was chosen for her first appearance at college, because it's so young. Pale greys and subtler shades are used in the scenes before she decided to solve her daughter's love by going to school.

I am glad for Richard Quine and William Asher that "Leather Gloves," the movie they made at Columbia is regarded as a sleeper. They made it in twelve days for a cost of about $100,000, when it opened in Brooklyn, the critics praised it to the skies.

The result of these notices is that Columbia, who had regarded it as an unimportant B picture, will spend some money to exploit it.

The prize fight scenes are particularly good, and Cameron Mitchell, the actor, gets an excellent break.

Sam Goldwyn is bringing Raymond Massey from New York for the feuding McCoy's of the fussy Hatfields and McCoys in "Roseanna McCoy." Massey had just landed there after finishing "The Fountainhead" when he had to turn around and come back.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Dudley Field Malone, famous attorney, slipped and hurt his hip and is laid up in his hotel. Dudley has been living in Phoenix.

Dean Stockwell, the boy actor, is staging a one-man revolt against movies requiring him to have long hair. He is insisting upon being a regular boy and wearing almost a crew haircut.

Ruth Hussey leaves soon for the east to make appearances at Veterans Hospitals in New England. This is part of the plan for stars to entertain in hospitals for two months a year, and it's a very good idea.

Jane Powell's parents are being sensible about Geary Stephen Jr. The kids had dinner with Jane's parents and Geary's father the other evening. This is Jane's first boyfriend, and she's "cute" about it.

Lady Elsie Mendl sails for America October 19 if she is well enough. Sir Charles, who had planned to go east to meet her, hasn't been well, and the doctor has given him strict orders to take care of himself. Elsie will remain in New York a month before coming to Hollywood where her friends plan to give her a big welcome.

Kay Francis, who did three months of "The Last of Mrs. Cheney" in summer stock, has completely recovered and will do a play. She was in Groucho's picture. That's all for today.

Cleveland Indians Win American Loop Flag

•Two TKO's Feature Police Boys Club Fight Card

Pittsburghers Win Three Of Five Top Bouts Only Six Fights, Card Late Starting

Boys from the Homewood A. C. of Pittsburgh, Pa., won three of the five inter-city bouts with the Merrick Boys Club of Washington, D. C., in the Police Boys Club's 11th amateur fight card presented here at the State Armory last night.

Two TKO's featured the meeting of the out-of-town boys and three five-round bouts were held on a program that was held to six fights due to lateness getting started. The bouts were slated to get under way at 8 p. m. but both Pittsburgh and Washington clubs were late in arriving and the first scrap got going at 9:05 p. m.

The first technical kayoe came in the fourth bout when Chuck Greer, Pittsburgh, went over, stopped Willie Jones of Washington in the fifth round after the latter suffered a bad cut over his eye.

Greer scored against the clever Washingtonian repeatedly with a nice left jab in the first couple of rounds and finally opened the cut which disqualification Jones.

Roman Guest Referee

Gene Roman, popular New Jersey referee, was the guest referee for this bout. Roman is in Cumberland for several days and was asked to officiate at one of the local battles.

Eugene Smith, 115 pounder, evened the score for Washington, when the little southpaw opened up with a flurry of punches which stopped Socky Lewis of Pittsburgh in the second round of their scheduled five-rounders. Dr. Arthur Jones stopped the fight when Lewis received a bad cut over his eye.

A wild punching affair opened the evening's program when Bill Brock of the Merrick Boys Club and Lewis Foster of Pittsburgh tangled in a fast three-round. Brock gained the judges' decision.

Paul Robinson, Homewood featherweight, weathered a bad third round when hit rather freely by his opponent Clyde Morgan and gained the nod in another three-round. The voting was very close in this crowd pleaser.

Calloway Fight Best

The first scrap to go five rounds was the best on the card as Kid Calloway of Pittsburgh earned a hard-won 2-1 decision over Paul Gilchrist of Washington.

Both fighters punched hard and boxed well with the outcome in doubt all the way. Gilchrist weighed in at 122 and Calloway at 126.

The only local talent to see action on Matchmaker John Henry Statcher's program were Joey Hines of the PBC and Bill Braithwaite, unattached.

The local welterweights slugged it out three fast rounds with Hines getting the officials' nod. Several solid blows landed by Hines were the contributing factor in his win.

The crowd witnessing the show was one of the smallest of the season.

Officials for the card were Randolph Millholland and Jack Borick; judges: John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, timer and Referees Jim Kelley and Gene Roman.

Ostermueller Resigns As Active Hurler

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4 (AP)—"Old Polk" Fred Ostermueller today voluntarily retired after 14 years of pitching in the major leagues.

At his own request, the 41-year-old southpaw was released by the Pittsburgh Pirates. He will return to his farm home near Quincy, Ill.

Fritz broke into the majors in 1944. He played with the Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Browns of the American League and Brooklyn and Pittsburgh in the National League. His lifetime record was 144 won against 115 losses.

Hack Wilson III: Condition Is Serious

BALTIMORE, Oct. 4 (AP)—Lewis (Hack) Wilson, former Chicago Cub baseball singer, was taken unconscious to a hospital in an ambulance today.

His wife told police Hack has been ill and fell out of bed. A hospital spokesman said Wilson's poor condition was due to an internal ailment and not to any fall.

The sugar reached his peak in 1930 when he batted out 56 home runs. His record of 190 runs batted in that season still stands for both major leagues.

Boon Will Fight Terry Young Here

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP)—Eric Boon of England, will fight his first bout in this country against Terry Young of New York. They signed today for a 10-round bout in St. Nicholas Arena on Oct. 15. Boon, outstanding British welterweight, has been in this country since early summer.

50,000 Expected To See Pro Grid Tilt At Baltimore

Colts Play Hosts To Cleveland Browns

BALTIMORE, Oct. 4 (AP)—The Cleveland Browns tomorrow night come up against the Baltimore Colts, a team it helped build to a point where it looms as the eastern threat to western dominance of the All-American Football Conference.

The clash is expected to draw as many as 50,000 fans to the Babe Ruth Stadium.

Baltimore, the surprise of the conference with three wins out of four to lead the Eastern Division, already has beaten the Browns. That was in an exhibition game, 21-17, which left more than just the defeat to rankle the two-time conference champs.

The Colts put four Cleveland regulars out of action and one of them, Danie Lavelli, still is sidelined.

Also in the "adding insult to injury" category are two mainstays of the Colts' quarterback Y. A. Title and tackle Ernie Blandin. Both were sent to Baltimore by Cleveland in the loop's move to strengthen the weak sisters. Title was the big gun in the Colts' win over the Browns with his sharp passing and may turn out to be the rookie back of the year.

Cleveland has won four straight conference games in its quest for its third straight title. A loss tomorrow night will endanger its chances of winning the western division, since San Francisco also is undefeated in six games.

Beall Seeks First Win At Westernport

Bruce Plays Host To Flintstone Team

Coach Eddie Finzel's Beall High Soccerites, seeking their first WMI League victory will journey to Westernport today to tackle Bruce High's eleven, undefeated in two league games to date.

In the other loop battle scheduled for this afternoon, Flintstone, also winless, invades Barton which has won one of three starts in the five-team circuit.

Mentor Johnny Meyers' league-leading Central booters will be idle. Central has won three straight league contests.

Ed Thompson will be the referee in the battle at Westernport while Ray Middleton will officiate at the Flintstone-Barton fray.

Ticks scheduled for next Tuesday find Flintstone traveling to Frostburg to battle Beall and Central playing host to Bruce. Thompson will be the arbiter in the first game and Middleton in the latter.

No Days Off To Travel In Series

BOSTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—The 1948 world series between the Boston Braves and the Cleveland Indians will open in Boston Wednesday.

The first two games of the series will be played in Boston Wednesday and Thursday. The teams will then shift to Cleveland for the next three games, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. If more games are needed, the series will be resumed in Boston for the sixth and seventh games next Monday and Tuesday. There will be no days off for travel.

YANKS DROP HARRIS AS MANAGER; NEW PILOT IS NOT NAMED

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP)—Stanley (Bucky) Harris is cut as manager of the New York Yankees and the club announced the successor would not be picked from its present player list.

Harris' contract would not be renewed next year was announced after a meeting among President Dan Topping, General Manager George M. Weiss and Harris.

The decision was by "mutual agreement," the terse Yankee announcement said.

The new manager will be chosen at a future date, it added, and for consideration are several men "not included as players active with the 1948 team."

HAPPY INDIANS—Rejoicing in the clubhouse after their thrilling 8-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox are pitcher Gene Bearden (left) who allowed the Red Sox five hits, Lou Boudreau (center) who hit four times in four trips including two home runs, and Ken Keltner (right) who homered with two on in the fourth to spark the Cleveland Indians to their win in the American League's first pennant playoff in history. It was the Tribe's first title in 28 years.

CLEVELAND RULES 2-1 FAVORITE TO DEFEAT BRAVES IN SERIES

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4 (AP)—In betting commissioner James J. Carroll's book the Cleveland Indians look more than twice as good as the Boston Braves to win the world series.

Carroll posted odds of 11 to 5 on Boston, and 7 to 20 on Cleveland. That means you could win $11 for your $5 on Boston, and would have to put up $20 on Cleveland to win $7.

For the first game he issued these odds:

Sain vs. Peller, 7 to 5 on Boston; 3 to 5 on Cleveland.

Sain vs. Lemon, 13 to 10 on Boston; 13 to 20 on Cleveland.

Savage River Water Supply Termned Normal

Raising Dam Level Would Boost Supply

FROSTBURG — The water level in Savage River basins which collect the water used in Frostburg are no lower than usual at this time of the year. Water Superintendent James Kenney reported.

Water from mountain springs, wells and a seven foot dam located on the Savage River about 100 yards above the lower basin is collected in the sump basins.

During the late summer and early fall months, he added, additional water must be pumped from Piney Run Dam to supplement the regular supply.

Kenney said the supply of water from Savage River could be greatly increased by enlarging the Savage River Dam but an act of the legislature would be required to raise the height of the dam above its present level.

Kenney said springs supplying water to the sump basins are cleaned each year and are enclosed beneath small frame sheds to prevent leaves from clogging the lines from the springs to the collecting basins.

Several lines running into basins are practically dry except during the spring season while snow is melting on the mountain side, he said.

Luke War Dead Immortalized With Plaque

Everhart Speaks At Ceremonies Sunday

LUKE—The names of nine Luke World War I and II war dead were inscribed on a bronze tablet presented to the town Sunday by the Luke Veteran's Club. Four hundred residents filled the square opposite the Devon Club to witness ceremonies honoring the heroes.

Frank B. Everhart, Terra Alta, W. Va., judge advocate of the American Legion Department of West Virginia, delivered the main address on the theme, "These Are Your Credentials."

He explained this sentence with a story of a hard fought battle in France between the Germans and Americans during World War II.

The Germans finally put up the white flag of surrender and the German general came out of his dugout impeccably dressed in razor creased trousers, a neatly knotted tie and clean shirt. He approached the American General who was seated in a jeep with several G.I.'s and asked him for his credentials. Pointing to the men, the American General said "These are my credentials."

Mr. Everhart was presented by Joseph J. Diaz, president of the Luke Veteran's Club.

The plaque was presented by Diaz and accepted by Mayor Fred W. Wiseman. It was then unveiled by Welton Davis and Harry Ravenscroft after taps were sounded by Calvin Haggerty.

A bronze honor roll bearing the names of 197 men and women from Luke who served in World War II was presented to the Luke School by Sam W. Widmer, World War I veteran, on behalf of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

It was accepted by Principal William G. Fiskin who was chairman of arrangements for the program. The honor roll was unveiled by Miss Katherine Kiddy and Miss Janet Randall.

The program also included selections by the Arion Band, Frostburg, directed by Darrell G. Zeiler; invocation by Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, rector of St. James Episcopal Church, Westernport; singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by the Tri-Towns Male Chorus and audience under the direction of Russell F. DeVore, and another selection, "America the Beautiful" by the chorus.

The pledge of Allegiance to the flag was led by Principal Fiskin and Rev. George J. Pugh, assistant pastor of St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport, gave the benediction. A selection by the band completed the program.

Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52, American Legion, Piedmont, W. Va. and Victoria Post No. 155, American Legion, Westernport, participated in the program. Parents and nearest relatives of the honored men sat on a temporary platform erected for that purpose.

Thomas A. O'Leary and Hugh A. Sterling, World War I dead, and Francis H. Dawson, Charles R. Dayton, Armed W. Va. Grove, Morrison A. Holland, Edward Kooker, Leonard A. Saville and Charles W. Stevey, World War II dead, were the Luke residents whose names were engraved on the tablet.

Youth Shot In Scuffle Freed On $200 Bond

KEYSER, W. Va.—Charles Cavanaugh, 21, Keyser, who was shot in the right hip while attempting to take a .38 revolver from Pete Biser at the home of Mrs. Carrie Hamilton, Virginia Avenue, last Wednesday night, was released on $200 bond yesterday afternoon for his appearance Monday, October 11, for a hearing before Justice of the Peace Madelyn Bazzle. Cavanaugh is charged with destruction of property.

Cavanaugh, who has been involved in several police cases during the past 18 months, was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital following the incident, and was discharged from the hospital yesterday.

State Trooper Frank Bowley, who investigated the shooting, said Cavanaugh went to Mrs. Hamilton's home last Wednesday night and asked her for money. It was apparent he had been drinking, the officer said, and Mrs. Hamilton, who is his sister, refused to give him the money fearing he would continue drinking and violate a parole imposed last January by Judge Ernest A. See of Mineral County Circuit Court.

Bowley, who has been involved in several police cases during the past 18 months, was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital following the incident, and was discharged from the hospital yesterday.

After breaking down several doors in the house, Cavanaugh broke through the door

Seamanship Races For Actors

When I was a boy on Oconomowoc Lake in Wisconsin, we had sailboat races every Sunday. At the end of the season silver cups were distributed to those sailors who had picked up the most points by placing well up there in the most races during the summer. While a full season of sailing competition is a reasonably accurate system for picking out the best sailors on the lake, it has an unfair tendency to favor the man with the best boat or, at any rate, the newest boat.

Consequently it was the custom every year to have one race which was known as the seamanship race.

The numbers of all the boats were placed in a hat and you drew whatever fate decreed, sometimes the boat you wished you had all season, sometimes the worst tub on the lake. (If you picked your own boat, you had to draw again.) In this race, seamanship counted above everything else. You didn't know the boat under you as well as your own—neither its crochets nor its special skills—and neither did any one else. If you finished twelfth, when in the regular season you normally finished third, it was suspected that your boat was the chief factor in your success and your sailing skill was negligible. Sailors who finished first monotonously in the regular season sometimes finished last in the seamanship race, which afforded great satisfaction to the sailor who regularly occupied that position himself.

Well, I think it would be a fine idea to have a seamanship race in radio too. Fine for the artists, fine for the customers. I don't expect to get anywhere with this suggestion but it's stimulating to think about. Suppose, at the end of every season, the names of all the better entertainers in radio were placed in a hat and there was a drawing. Bing Crosby, let's say, would draw "Duffy's Tavern."

I'd like to see Crosby take that wonderful saloon for an evening—not, as is the present custom, as a guest star but as major domo. He wouldn't necessarily have to scramble his sentences like Ed Gardner but he'd have to mix the drinks and answer the phone unassisted by Ed Gardner. This would be a refreshing experience not only for Miss Duffy, Finnegan and Eddie Green, but would open new vistas to Mr. Crosby too.

All sorts of other juxtapositions suggest themselves. I rather like the most implausible ones. I don't for example think it would do Fred Allen much good to trade places with Jack Benny. I'd rather see Allen slip for an evening into Fibber McGee's shoes at 29 Wistful Vista and open that hall closet. I have an idea that if Bob Hope took over Nick Carter's job in "The Thin Man" it would make a fun-rate, the newest boat.

Consequently it was the custom every year to have one race which was known as the seamanship race.

The numbers of all the boats were placed in a hat and you drew whatever fate decreed, sometimes the boat you wished you had all season, sometimes the worst tub on the lake. (If you picked your own boat, you had to draw again.) In this race, seamanship counted above everything else. You didn't know the boat under you as well as your own—neither its crochets nor its special skills—and neither did any one else. If you finished twelfth, when in the regular season you normally finished third, it was suspected that your boat was the chief factor in your success and your sailing skill was negligible. Sailors who finished first monotonously in the regular season sometimes finished last in the seamanship race, which afforded great satisfaction to the sailor who regularly occupied that position himself.

Well, I think it would be a fine idea to have a seamanship race in radio too. Fine for the artists, fine for the customers. I don't expect to get anywhere with this suggestion but it's stimulating to think about. Suppose, at the end of every season, the names of all the better entertainers in radio were placed in a hat and there was a drawing. Bing Crosby, let's say, would draw "Duffy's Tavern."

I'd like to see Crosby take that wonderful saloon for an evening—not, as is the present custom, as a guest star but as major domo. He wouldn't necessarily have to scramble his sentences like Ed Gardner but he'd have to mix the drinks and answer the phone unassisted by Ed Gardner. This would be a refreshing experience not only for Miss Duffy, Finnegan and Eddie Green, but would open new vistas to Mr. Crosby too.

All sorts of other juxtapositions suggest themselves. I rather like the most implausible ones. I don't for example think it would do Fred Allen much good to trade places with Jack Benny. I'd rather see Allen slip for an evening into Fibber McGee's shoes at 29 Wistful Vista and open that hall closet. I have an idea that if Bob Hope took over Nick Carter's job in "The Thin Man" it would make a fun-

Planning Body Backs Federal Sewage Grant

$20,000 Available To Municipalities

Recommendation that the Mayor and Council apply for a $20,000 federal grant for preliminary engineering studies in connection with the proposed sewage disposal plant in Cumberland was approved unanimously yesterday by the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

Two members of the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission met with the local group in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post to explain procedure to be followed in making such an application.

They were Paul W. McKee, Annapolis, commission secretary, and Frank Wachter, Baltimore. Also attending the meeting was George F. Hazelwood, a local member of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin.

Wachter explained that outright grants up to a maximum of $20,000 are available through the United States Public Health Service for engineering surveys with reference to sewage disposal plants.

Application for such grants, McKee said, must be cleared through the state Water Pollution Control Commission.

Would Be Outright Grant
Both Wachter and McKee emphasized that there would be no necessity for the city to match the funds and that the $20,000 would be an outright grant. They said applications will be handled on a "first come, first served" basis.

Hazelwood commented that the average engineering fee for preparing detailed plans is five per cent of the total construction cost. If the sewage disposal plant here is roughly estimated to cost one million dollars, he said, cost of the complete engineering survey might amount to $50,000.

However, Albert S. Paye, liaison agent for flood work here, pointed out that preliminary plans could probably be drawn up for considerably less than $50,000.

Chairman James Alfred Avirett expressed the opinion the city should request the $20,000 federal grant so that general groundwork can be laid for the project.

Hazelwood agreed that preliminary plans would be helpful, since the city would eventually have such a plant, in all probability.

H. W. Smith, commission secretary, asked Wachter and McKee to prepare a written outline of the exact procedure to be followed in applying for the grant, to be attached to the planning commission's recommendation to the Mayor and Council.

Mayor Post, an ex-officio member of the commission, expressed his approval of the recommendation.

Wachter and McKee explained that the state Water Pollution Control Commission, formed in 1947 by an act of the General Assembly, is desirous of aiding Maryland municipalities in water pollution work by informing them of financial or legislative steps which can be taken to promote such projects.

Fire Department Will Hold Open House This Week

Chief Asks Citizens To Inspect Stations

The Cumberland Fire Department is holding open house this week.

Fire Chief John E. Brennan yesterday issued a cordial invitation to all citizens to inspect Cumberland's four fire stations.

Firemen, he said, will be glad to demonstrate equipment and to answer any questions about the operation of the department at all times, and not only during this week, which is being observed throughout the United States as Fire Prevention Week.

Chief Brennan said the department is especially anxious to have school children learn more about how a fire fighting unit operates.

Knowing the proper way to report a fire by phone or by box alarm can save precious moments to fire fighters and result in the saving of life and property, he added.

He stated firemen will be glad to inspect properties for fire hazards but said the department does not have authority to inspect private property without permission.

City firemen will be busy this week distributing fire prevention literature to students of city schools and posters to business firms and will provide speakers, when requested, for organizations.

Fire Prevention will also be stressed by the department by a tour of the city of a fire truck fire prevention signs.

People, Chief Brennan said, are becoming more fire conscious every day and almost invariably are glad to co-operate with the fire department in such work.

Devices For Dust-Fall Collection Ordered For Smoke Control Study

Hitchcock Promises Early Installation

Eighteen devices for making dust-fall collections at various points in the city have been ordered, and delivery is expected within two weeks, George M. Hitchcock, city smoke abatement engineer, said yesterday.

Shown here is a map prepared by Hitchcock and City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer, on which the proposed locations of the devices are marked with stars.

The instruments are being designed on specifications approved by the Smoke Prevention Association of America, Inc., Hitchcock said.

When they are installed, Cumberland will be the 13th city in the United States to use the dust-fall collection method of determining the extent and origin of air pollution.

The devices, to be placed on roofs of buildings throughout the city, will consist of glass containers, each mounted on four iron supports five and one-half feet in height, so that they will extend above roof projections.

The glass containers will measure 7½ by 6½ inches and will be 10 inches deep.

Hitchcock said the containers will be brought in every 30 days for analysis of the contents and will be replaced by new jars.

After six "readings" are taken over a six-month period, the resulting successive patterns of air pollution will show chief points of origin of the pollution, he explained.

The Smoke Prevention Association recommends that at least six successive monthly analyses be made before definite conclusions as to air pollution are reached, Hitchcock explained.

On the basis of preliminary estimates, he said, insoluble air pollution in Cumberland amounts to about 385 tons per square mile each year.

Hitchcock said the new devices are expected to cost $25 each, including manufacture and installation.

Dust and other matter caught in the glass containers will be analyzed for volatile matter, fixed carbon and ash.

Cities already using the method include Chicago, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Los Angeles, Nashville, Minneapolis and Chattanooga.

The South End Republican Club will nominate and elect officers at a meeting tonight at 7:30 at the club rooms.

Present officers are Victor M. Hebb, president; Jerry Beechee, vice president; Milton Ryne, treasurer, and William O. Shipley, secretary.

Earl E. Manges, local attorney and court reporter in Circuit Court here, will be guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club tomorrow at 12:15 p.m. at Central YMCA. He will discuss his experiences as court stenographer.
